More about After the Benediction: Sherabim Joy will take you on an extraordinary journey...

Sherabim Joy skillfully provides a picturesque glimpse into the reality of ministry pressures faced by many Christian leaders as portrayed through the life of our heroine Evangelist Jacey Joyner.

Evangelist Jacey Joyner is loved and admired by as many people who envy her. To the untrained eye she appears to have it altogether; a beautiful family, a thriving ministry, and people to fawn over her. However, after the benediction; she struggles immensely with her own reality, to the point that she is haunted by a suicidal presence. Her refusal to forgive her father, former Bishop Jason Loftin for his thoughtless and scandalous acts sows grave seeds of bitterness within her that threaten to destroy her relationship with God, her family, and her ministry.

Unable to continue carrying the weighty load of people’s expectations, Jacey is on the verge of simply walking away from it all. However, an ordained encounter with a spiritual eye, capable of seeing beyond her facade and unmoved by her title and accomplishments confronts her with love and kindness. Will pride keep Jacey from accepting the truth about her circumstances? Or will she have an ear to hear the voice of wisdom and instruction that will turn her situation around?
